

Lets the user set different control modes and outputs data to the console periodically.

